Drug investigation leads to five arrests

Bail has been set at $10,000 cash for a Boston man accused of supplying cocaine to a network of drug dealers who police say have been selling the drug in Hingham, Hull, Norwell and Cohasset.

Rey Rivera-Santell, 25, was arrested along with four alleged associates in Scituate on Friday (April 21) following what police said was an 18-month investigation based on tips from confidential informants and hours of police surveillance. Rivera-Santell was arraigned Monday (April 24) on charges of cocaine trafficking, cocaine possession and conspiracy to violate drug laws. Police said Rivera-Santell's arrest last week came after detectives spent several hours following two of his "underlings" as they drove around Marshfield, Scituate and Cohasset buying, selling and using drugs. According to the police report, detectives first started following Erin Hunt, 45, of Cohasset as she was leaving her work on Enterprise Drive in Marshfield and later watched her pick up William Kurtz, 54, at his home in Cohasset. Police said detectives followed Hunt's car for several hours as she drove to bars, restaurants, banks and liquor stores in several towns before finally pulling into a parking lot by the VFW post on Chief Justice Cushing Highway in Scituate that police said is often used for drug deals. Magical Quest at Ingram Park in Cohasset

Exploring Cohasset's George M. Ingram Park is about to become more fun and enchanting with the April launch of Cohasset Conservation Trust's (CCT) new whimsical clue-directed quest that draws on rich fairy-tale lore. The self-guided, onemile nature walk, "Magical Creatures of Ingram Quest' turns exploration into an enthralling and curious hunt, revealing little fairies and trolls, plus their delicate homes with tiny doors crafted in tree hollows, and miniature living accessories all made of biodegradable wood, twigs, lichen and fungi. The quest ends with a treasure box containing a stamp and notebook to record success. "Last year's CCT Quest through Great Brewster Woods was a huge success with more than 250 people participating. Cohasset is blessed with beautiful open space to roam and exceptional glacial geography for exploring wildlife, plants, and forests," said Debbie Shadd, president of the Cohasset Conservation Trust. "We're excited for the community to experience this very unique quest." The new quest is a fascinating and imaginative way to enjoy the outdoors on the 21.6 acre property, which features old stone walls, interesting "glacial erratic" rocks and an old stone foundation. CTT Director Katie Holden and Cohasset artist Mae Carpenter designed the quest. Magical Creatures of Ingram Quest is a partnership between the Cohasset Conservation Trust and the South Shore Quest Committee that offers walks on 15 local public lands and parks throughout the area.

According to The Wilderness Society, nature walks offer mental benefits. A small dose of the outdoors can freshen the spirit. Walking in the woods can increase one's ability to focus and concentrate.

ohasset Youth Theatre (CYT) in its second year of partnering with Cohasset Recreation Department on a spring musical theater production for teens/ young adults, presents "Legally Blonde Jr." with a cast of 32 teens/young adults from around the South Shore.

"Legally Blonde, Jr." follows the transformation of Elle Woods as she tackles stereotypes, snobbery and scandal in pursuit of her dreams. When Elle's high school boyfriend, Warner, dumps her and heads to Harvard claiming she's not "serious" enough, Elle takes matters into her own hands, cramming for better test scores and crafting a showy personal essay to gain admission to law school. Elle ultimately finds that books and looks aren't mutually exclusive, as she begins outsmarting her peers, realizing that law may be her natural calling after all.

Public performances take place Friday, April 28 and Saturday, April 29 at 7:30 p.m. at the Cohasset

Town Hall stage General Admission tickets are $15 each and are available at the door one hour prior to each performance. Cash or check are accepted. Additional information is available by contacting: Lisa Pratt lisafpratt@gmail.com.

LIFE AT CHS

Spring break trip to Germany

ith April vacation last week, it seems this CHS update is long over due. That being said, the break was much appreciated by every senior Skipper who is struggling with college decisions and plans for next year. While the mandatory deposit date of May 1 looms, I am confident the time off the pressures of school was enough of a reprieve to get a clear mind and make an educated decision. Now that we are back, it seems the hallways are buzzing with talk of the class of 2017's plans for next year. Speaking of the class of 2017, our last day of high school is quickly approaching, as May 19th becomes closer and closer. Before anyone realizes, we will be gone and the junior class will become acutely aware of their new status in the high school. Many CHS students including myself traveled to Germany over the spring vacation on the school Euro Trip. Venturing around the entirety of the country, we visited many unique cities such as Hamburg, Berlin, Dresden, and Munich. While touring the country, we learned about the significant impact of the Second World War as well

In the sports aspect of Cohasset, the vacation did not cause our athletes to take a break as Boys Baseball pulled out an impressive victory over neighboring Scituate. OUR VIEW

The case for science

t's like a force that works invisibly, all around us, and within us. Driving a car. Using a cellphone, or laptop. Even, while sleeping, the processes of respiration and heartbeat. The fact is, there isn't anything in our lives that does not require science science as our means to understanding, inventing, problem-solving, discovering. On April 22, marches for science, including the one held on Boston Common, drew large crowds with signs and slogans - to make the invisible visible in a public and profound way. (For photos, see page B4) One said, simply, "No science, no beer," and it is true. The creation of a tasteful brew requires knowing how ingredients and chemicals interact, and in a precise manner. In popular culture, science and scientists are sometimes lampooned as aloof, removed, socially inept - and indeed, many scientists know this, and at the march, many embraced the nerdy image. If nerdy means intellectually curious and enterprising, then it was time for nerds to unite in a show of nerdy pride. The underlying call, whatever the stereotype, was this - what is owed to scientists, and science.

Science is not absolute, or immutable. It's a process - of learning, of questioning, of research and sometimes frustration. Science is often building on previous knowledge. This was perhaps stated

no more eloquently than by Sir Isaac Newton, who declared he was "standing on the shoulders of giants." a nod to Galileo Galilei and others who came before

This famous quote takes us back even further - an allusion to a comment made of the medieval scholar and philosopher Bernard of Chartres. In time, others came to stand on Newton's great shoulders - Albert Einstein, Stephen Hawk-science finds itself at a crossroads. While not a political or partisan event, the march was clearly a call to come to the aid of science - including against cuts to agencies such as the Environmental Protection Agency. But political implications aside, science labors in an environment where its revelations sometimes trouble or upend cherished beliefs. That doesn't always sit well, and sometimes causes fear or misunderstanding when it shouldn't.

Science in schools teaches young minds to tasks that should be carried out throughout life to examine evidence, ask questions, challenge assumptions, look for answers and never give up.

These are values anyone, regardless of political affiliation, could and should embrace, and instill in children from an early age. Someday, they too may stand on the shoulders of giants.

to sow seeds. At last, the paths are not soaked with standing water. The clumps of compost to be applied are workable. The ordered seeds are all in their packages, waiting to grow. The long days of sunlight, rising at 6:15 and setting 13 hours later, give more than hope to the peas, radish and kale who will be in the ground. The amendments are purchased through the bulk order. With the soil test results in hand, the farmers can apply and amend as needed. There is also a trip waiting to be taken to the Boston fish piers to haul back the ground shell to the farm. This free product will also amend and balance the soil upon which we ask so much. The soil gives nutrients and room to grow for tomatoes, eggplants, parsnips and leeks, all crops who live in the precious ground for so long. We ask a lot of our fields, and we hope they respond with success and and prepare thoroughly so we can grow, cultivate and eventually harvest, all the while working in concert with the earth and not against it. The 30-inch wide rows or farm beds are ready for seeds, with compost and some gentle broad-forking to upend any early weeds that wish to grow. The creeping quack grass, with its long runner vines, will also be kept at bay, so as not to infiltrate the raked beds.

The tractors, though out of their shed while the shed receives repair, will not till some fields as we experiment with less deep disturbance of the soil. Plus the gas money saved could help the bottom line and the environment. Why is controlling nealthcare costs so

Healthcare service and financing costs hard to understand and control for three reasons: ■ First, healthcare costs aren't "transparent." When you buy a product, like a television, cell phone, or car, you know how much it costs as a basis for making your purchase decision. There's a "sticker price." That's harder to figure out for healthcare services. Each provider may have a different price for the same service. Further, the relationship between patient and the referring physician is often strong enough in healthcare that we do what he or she suggests and let the payer (private insurance,

Medicare, and so on) sort out what's "allowable" and what's not. ■ Second, many prescription drugs are costly. One cause is high research and development costs, but the American College of Physicians reports that the lack of price competition makers for the same drug is another cause. Also, the Medicare Modernization Act of 2003 banned Medicare - the largest American purchaser of drugs from negotiating volume discounts from manufacturers, even though Medicaid and the Veterans Administration can do so. Many drugs are made and sold for less overseas, but their import is restricted, supposedly for safety

■ Third, health insurance policies vary in prices and benefits. They're hard to compare in apples-to-apples terms for what services and providers are covered, and to what degree.

Within the next month, there will be a Town Planner on board to help keep this very large train on track. With a harbor plan and open space plan currently under construction as well, the planner will play a key role in tying the various plans together. He or she will also help select a consultant in time to kick-start the process this summer. It's the Planning Board's responsibility to put together the master plan and they do not have to take it before Annual Town Meeting for a vote. However, many towns do have a vote of support at their town meeting following the Planning Board's approval of the master plan. The last master plan received only partial support from the Planning Board, garnering two votes in favor, two against, and one abstention. Reviewing what worked and didn't work about that plan has been part of the process going into the new one.

That was a big relief for Rowland. "It can be hard to find a project to do in Cohasset because there are so many Eagle Scouts," he said. "The usual woodland paths have been done."

Perhaps one of the project's greatest features was that it required the removal of an old tetherball pole, which had made a hazard of itself due to its proximity to the kickball field.

After uninstalling the pole, the rest was relatively straightforward, said Rowland. The ground was already flat. The troop laid 64 paving stones in alternating colors and populated the board with foot-and-ahalf tall chess pieces, which in some cases are almost as big as the kids.

Construction was the easy part. It only took two days over the course of Veterans Day weekend last November, and Rowland had so much help that he actually had to send folks home. The harder part was the advance planning and day-of coordination. Luckily Rowland has had some practice planning and organizing things. He's been serving as the troop's quartermaster, which means it's his job to organize stocks and gear for camping trips, plus keeping it all in order between excursions. He's the one telling troop members that they don't need that many axes, or that they should pack water, or that they're going to need a ladle with the soup they're bringing.

Rowland said he's not naturally organized, but despite that, he's flourished "I have yet to lose any-when the Mayflower was designated the official state flower. Most of these types of bills are filed by legislators on behalf of classes of students. It is not too late for students to propose a bill for the 2017-2018 session. Teachers and students should contact their local senators or represen-

There are dozens of other "official designations" dating as far back as 1918

Sponsors of the various proposals say this is a way to teach youngsters about the legislative process. The children often go up to Beacon Hill to testify in favor of their bill.

Some critics say that the perennial filing of such proposals wastes the valuable time of the Legislature, which should be dealing with real issues and serious legislation.

One of the more unique ones that has not been approved is the proposal making the Fluffernutter, a sandwich combining peanut butter and Marshmallow Fluff on white bread, the state's official sandwich. The concoction was invented in 1917 and the recipe was purchased by North Shore natives Allen Durkee and Fred Mower. It is still made in a small manufacturing plant in Lynn.

Other unsuccessful proposals from past years include making the late Rex Trailer, the iconic Massachusetts children's television host, the official state cowboy; the "Number 6" the official state number; double fudge brownie the official ice cream; squash the official vegetable and Necco wafers the official

Two of the most controversial of the successful designations are the 2007 vote making basketball the official state sport and the 2012 one making vollevball the state's official recreational and team sport. Both were approved but there was some rare opposition.

Volleyball supporters explain that volleyball was invented in 1895 in Holyoke by William Morgan. Basketball supporters say that the National Basketball Hall of Fame is located in Springfield and note the game was invented in 1891 in that city by James Naismith, a gym teacher at the YMCA Training School. They also point out that that the Celtics have won more NBA championships than any other team. Red Sox fans point to the team's recent World Series wins and argue that Boston has been and always will be "a baseball town." Supporters of the Patriots point to the team' recent Super Bowl victories. Bruins fans point to the Stanley Cup win in 2011 and the team's rich history.

Of the thousands of bills filed for the 2017-2018 session, there are many that attempt to designate "something" as the state's official "something."

Here are some of the proposals up for consideration this session: OFFICIAL STATE ROCK SONG (H 1683) - One measure that was filed by a legislator and not on behalf of any students, is the one that would make "Roadrunner" by Modern Love the state's official rock song. The proposal was first filed in 2013 by Weymouth Mayor Bob Hedlund and Boston Mayor Marty Walsh. Both men were state legislators at that time. Rep. Dave Linsky (D-Natick) picked up the torch and filed the bill in 2015 but it went nowhere. He has filed it again this year. Linsky tells Beacon Hill Roll Call that The Modern Lovers were a Boston-based rock band led by Jonathan Richman who is a Natick native, the town in which Linsky was born and currently represents as a state representative.

"Roadrunner,' ranked the 274th Greatest Song of All Time by Rolling Stone Magazine, embodies what it was like for my generation growing up in the Massachusetts of the 1970s and 1980s," said Linsky. "The lyrics of the song take the listener on a late-night car ride down Massachusetts Route 128, passing by several Bay State landmarks, including Stop & Shop, Howard Johnson's, Routes 9 and 128 and the Massachusetts Turnpike 'Roadrunner' combines the liberation of youth on the open road with the ights and sounds (Radio on!) of our beloved Commonwealth."

Reps. James Cantwell (D-Marshfield) and Josh Cutler (D-Duxbury) had originally disagreed with the choice of "Roadrunner." In 2014, they filed a competing bill that would make Aerosmith's "Dream On" the official rock song. They have since compromised. "We agreed to support Roadrunner as [the] state rock song," said Cutler. "Aerosmith makes more sense as [the state's] official rock band." The duo plans to eventually file the Aerosmith

OFFICIAL SHELLFISH (H 1654) - The quahog, a hard-shelled clam enjoyed by many seafood lovers. It also served as a form of currency for Native

OFFICIAL TEXTILE (H 3376) - Gingham. The Town of Clinton was a world leader in the manufacture of cotton gingham fabric. According to the town's website, "In 1828 the Bigelow brothers, Erastus and Horatio, started an industrial revolution that left a lasting mark on the many aspects of Clinton. Erastus, a mechanical genius, invented the power loom for manufacturing coachlace, counterpane cloths and gingham plaids. With Horatio, a marketing entrepreneur, the brothers captured a firm hold on the textile OFFICIAL CUPCAKE (H 1701) - The Boston Cream Pie Cupcake as the official cupcake. Need we say more?

OFFICIAL SEASONING (H 1693) -Bell's Seasoning as the official seasoning. It was created in 1867 by Boston inventor William Bell and is manufactured in East Weymouth.

OFFICIAL BUTTERFLY (H 3364) - The Black Swallowtail as the official butterfly. Sponsors say this is an opportunity to educate, inform and engage the public as butterflies play a role in maintaining a healthy environment and are an important contributor to the ecosystem and help promote plant

The song was written by Darci Hamman and her third-grade class at Our Lady's Academy, a private catholic school in Waltham, to provide a fun and engaging way for students across the state to

The funds would go into a newly-created Educational Opportunity for All Trust Fund that would be used exclusively for the purposes of subsidizing the cost of higher education, early education and child care for lower-income and middle-class residents of the Bay State.

RESIDENTIAL RENEWABLE ENERGY CREDIT (H 3320) -May 16 at ... 10 a.m. in Room A-1 in the Statehouse on a bill that will allow a residential renewable energy credit of up to $1,000 for installing solar and wind equipment at a person's second home. Current law offers the credit only for a primary residence. The credit offsets a taxpayer's personal income tax in the year that the system was financed.

HOW LONG WAS LAST WEEK'S SESSION? Beacon Hill Roll Call tracks the length of time that the House and Senate were in session each week. Many legislators say that legislative sessions are only one aspect of the . Legislature's job and that a lot of important work is done outside of the House and Senate chambers. They note that their jobs also involve committee work, research, constituent work and other matters that are important to their districts. Critics say that the Legislature does not meet regularly or long enough to debate and vote in public view on the thousands of pieces of legislation that have been filed. They note that the infrequency and brief length of sessions are misguided and lead to irresponsible late night sessions and a mad rush to act on dozens of bills in the days immediately preceding the end of an annual

Level: HOO BOY!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
